

The Studie Game

(Strategy game)

by Lost Ace

Plan your schedule, balance sleep, attention and studies and nothing can stop you from completing the test, and eventually your education.

Description

This is your first collage test.

Drag the activities to plan your schedule. Good sleep and attention will make your studying attempts more effective.

The reason this game was made is to raise awareness of how different structures of courses affect students, and how short term goals interlock with stress and the long term perspective. This demo only contains the first test, the full game will have multiple tests to manage parallel and varying roadblocks for different courses. In life you only get one attempt to screw up, in The Studie Game you get the opportunity to do it over and over again, and hopefully learn something after each time...
